

Falling into Gratitude

Wyatt Dennett is healing with the help of his community

The Ochsner family has opened their heart and home to Wyatt

Come hear Wyatt Dennett's inspirational story of learning to accept help after an accident left him paralyzed from the chest down.

Wyatt and his Santa Barbara network will speak about overcoming pain, reaching a place of gratitude, and changing perspectives on community and life.

Author Susie Lynge will give insights about networking as a way to give and receive support.

Thursday, May 23rd at 6-7 p.m.
Impact Hub, 1117 State Street

Donation-based fundraiser to support Wyatt's long-term care
All who donate will get a free copy of the book Network Now!

Wyatt needs our help. The funds donated at the event will be used to cover medical expenses and personal care. All donations are greatly appreciated.

On Thursday, May 23rd at Impact Hub, 1117 State Street, Wyatt Dennett will share about how his life changed in a second. He reminds us about the things we all take for granted, especially when you seem to have your whole life ahead of you. The evening that Wyatt fell from a third-story balcony his life changed drastically. He went from an active and independent 20-year-old to being paralyzed from the chest down and dependent on others to do even the smallest things for him.

After being hospitalized for six months, Wyatt's future was headed toward a nursing home for the elderly. But an unexpected network of people made it possible for him to have a life worth living. Hear the Ochsners share why they choose to take Wyatt into their home and how their network has been supporting them.

No one can do everything, but everyone can do something. Together we can change the world one life at a time.

Hear networking expert Susie Lyngé explain how to create a network of strong, mutually supportive connections. Receive a free copy of Susie Lyngé's best-selling book Network Now! with every donation at the Impact Hub. All donations support Wyatt's long-term care.
